Memorial Day (the last Monday in May), an official United States holiday, began over 100 years ago. This holiday honors our nation's armed services personnel that were killed in wartime. Originally, this holiday was called "Decoration Day" and its purpose was to decorate the graves of those who perished in the American Civil War.

However, our modern day celebration is a bit different. Today, Memorial Day is the time when people honor their close friends and family that have died. More significantly, we honor those soldiers and forefathers who fought for our freedom and helped create the world we live in today.

A moment of silence and respect is our Memorial Day tribute to honor the people who have paved the road to our future. Source: www.dcpages.com
