

March Coffee With Council Makes A Splash

Casual, Open Format Allows Discussion of Any Question or Area of Interest

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, COLORADO-March 5, 2019-Don't have your information trickle in, instead drink from the source and have your questions, concerns or inquiries answered from the water experts at the City of Steamboat Springs during the March edition of Coffee with Council.

From water supply to water quality and a look at the city's capacity to meet future demands, learn what is being done from Water Resource Manager, Kelly Romero-Heaney, and Public Works Director, Jon Snyder, to ensure the community's water continues to flow in our ever changing mountain environment.

Join Councilman Scott Ford and other available council members for Coffee with Council scheduled for Friday, March 8 from 7:30am to 9:00am in Centennial Hall. Coffee with Council sessions are typically held the second Friday of each month in the Crawford Room of Centennial Hall (124 10th Street).

The goal is to provide an opportunity for community members to meet with city council members in a relaxed atmosphere and discuss any issues of interest to them. Other cities and towns in Colorado have also adopted this approach in order to increase interaction between council and community members, and to promote greater transparency in city business.

No RSVP is necessary, community members are welcome to drop by to discuss any issues of interest to them. Coffee and light refreshments will be provided.
